

Brave the Cage Intern Application

Upcoming Tour: Feb 18 - Mar 17, 2018

Ever wonder what it'd be like to tour with Brave the Cage? Here's your chance! Our Brave the Cage internship is a perfect opportunity to directly impact the lives of hens in the egg industry. While touring the Southwest for a month, you will participate in Brave the Cage events, create social media content for the campaign, and produce your own animal rights project. The perfect candidate is a dedicated vegan who is comfortable with public speaking and wishes to further develop their outreach skills to help farmed animals!

Benefits:

- Directly outreach for hens on a daily basis
- Educate the public about veganism and help change behavior
- Improve public speaking and communication skills
- Learn how to leaflet, table, and prepare for events
- Contribute to the change for farmed animals

Duties & Responsibilities:

- Participate in daily Brave the Cage tabling events: encourage the public to get inside the cage, leaflet, and discuss animal right issues
- Assist in coordinating Brave the Cage events and recruiting volunteers
- Create social media content for Brave the Cage's Facebook page
- Produce a project which contributes to the protection of farmed animals or the vegan community
- Attend weekly educational sessions
- Assist in managing expenses and other necessary paperwork

Qualifications:

- Extensive knowledge of animal rights issues pertaining to farmed animals, especially on the egg industry
- Interest and commitment to advocating on behalf of farmed animals
- Comfortable discussing veganism with a compassionate demeanor
- Strong communication and public speaking skills
- Strong time management skills coupled with proven organizational skills
- Flexible to unexpected changes in events or the schedule
- Familiarity with Microsoft Office or similar technology platforms
- Comfortable sitting in a car and standing outside at events for extended hours

- Willingness to travel and live with Brave the Cage staff throughout the tour
